COMPETITIVE BALANCE

A discussion that began 35 years ago, but has gained more traction in recent years, finally moved in a new direction May 16 with the announcement by the Ohio High School Athletic Association of the passage of a competitive balance proposal.

The state's high school principals voted to accept a new plan intended to level the playing field between public and private schools, allowing the OHSAA to modify how schools are placed in tournament divisions in eight team sports, including football. (other team sports are to boys' soccer, basketball and baseball and girls' soccer, volleyball, basketball and softball.)

In the past, enrollment has been the only factor in deciding a team's division for post-season tournament play. For football, the division was determined by the number of incoming 10th, 11th and 12th grade boys.

Under the newly passed rules, a formula is applied to each athlete on the roster, based on where his parents reside, the history of his school enrollment, or both. A correlating number — zero, one or two — will be assigned to each player and multiplied by a sport factor (for football it is 2), which differs for the various sports governed by the new rules. In the end, an adjusted enrollment number is created.

For Ohio's parochial schools, the administration of the school can designate ONE feeder parish in which all players from that parish count will not count in adjusted enrollment figure (those players are given a factor of 0). Those athletes outside that parish, but enrolled in the same educational system (for Catholic grade schools, it is the specific Diocesan approved feeder schools) since seventh grade count as a factor of one   All others will count as two when calculating enrollment.

Member schools will report roster figures during training camp, along with the first week and third week of the football season. Those additional roster counts will be added to the initial enrollment figures to determine an adjusted enrollment number.

After the adjustment enrollment numbers are confirmed, division assignments will be created and announced – probably in week 4 of the high school football season.

This proposal passed by a margin of 411-323 with three abstentions. The formal proposal takes effect during the 2016-17 school-year, although a pilot program will be developed and completed during the 2015-16 year.

Similar plans have been voted down three times in the last few years. Member schools defeated plans to create separate championship tournaments for public and private schools in 1978 and 1993.

NEW OHSAA TIMING RULES

For years, high school football games in Ohio could be shortened by mutual agreement of both head coaches. That will change this fall with the adoption of a football point differential rule as part of the 2014-15 sport regulations approved by the Ohio High School Athletic Association Board of Directors.

The point differential regulation, which is already used in many states, is permitted by state adoption according to the National Federation of State High School Associations (NFHS).

Beginning this fall, when a football point differential reaches 30 points or more after the first half, the clock will only be stopped during an official's timeout, a charged timeout, the end of a period or after a score. The clock will continue to run in all other situations.

After the 30-point difference has been met, if the margin drops below 30 points, the clock reverts to regular timing.

Quarters still may be shortened in an emergency by agreement of the coaches and referee.

The proposal was recommended by the OHSAA staff after more than a year of consultation with the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association. Unlike changes to the bylaws and constitution, which require a vote of the membership, changes to sport-specific regulations and the general sports regulations need only approval from the OHSAA board of directors.

CRUSADERS WITH NEW CLOCK RULE

The Crusaders have been in 2 game this season (Covington Catholic (KY), W 39-0 and Xenia, W 55-7 that the new 30 pt running clock rule was put into effect.

CHAMPIONSHIPS RETURN TO COLUMBUS

The Ohio High School Athletic Association State Football Championships return to Columbus as the 2014 championship games for the seven divisions will be held at Ohio Stadium December 4-6, 2014.

The state championships return to Central Ohio after being played in Stark County for the last 24 years at Fawcett Stadium in Canton and Paul Brown Tiger Stadium in Massillon. Columbus last hosted the games at Ohio Stadium in 1989.

The Crusaders are 2-2 all-time at Ohio Stadium, winning two state titles playing at 'The Shoe'.
